DiskInternals Partition Recovery 3.8 (Version 3.8.5) is an application software to recover all information from a hard disk in case a partition gets corrupted, deleted, due to virus attack etc. Gigem Gigem (1400/2100 BC) or Gibem is a common site in the Jordan Valley for the Middle Bronze Age (MB) period, during which civilization in this area reached its peak. It is located near the modern village of Tel Hashmonim, just northwest of the Dead Sea. There are many layers of occupation there, with the oldest going back to the first half of the fourteenth millennium BC. Archaeological remains at the site include numerous monumental buildings, such as temples and palaces, structures with ritual functions, jewelry, megaliths, pottery and bronze objects. One of the most important discoveries here is the world-famous Phoenician "Gem of Baalbek", a mysterious and extraordinarily rare gold-plated artifact inscribed with a religious message that provides the earliest surviving written record in the Canaanite language, the oldest written language of the Old World. This is the oldest surviving written artifact in the world. It is a relief plaque mounted on a golden setting. The plaque is covered with inscriptions and other images, including a ritual hand placement with prayer, a bird, and a fish. The edifice was likely a symbol of the god Baal. In 1895, the site was discovered by Otto E. Neugebauer (1874–1955), who was director of the German-British School in Jerusalem at the time. He excavated the site between 1895 and 1905. Tel Gibem is located in the central area of the Valley of Jezreel at the foot of the Tell a-Turâ that rises from the surrounding plain. One of the first aspects of Tel Gibem was discovered by G. Padilla in October 2010 when he visited a building site identified by survey as a "palace". Soon after the discovery of the palace, another building block was found further to the west. Following a few weeks of archaeological work, the team moved to a temporary site in the Valley of Jezreel at a place called Kibbutz Kaniot. Permits for any future work at the site are issued by the Regional Director of Antiquities in Jerusalem.

Layout The site is spread over an area of approximately. It is
